

Rural Rotations in the Great Southern

When you join the team at Albany Health Campus, you'll become part of a close-knit community of health professionals, all offering excellent support to you as a junior doctor. Managing patient outcomes in a rural setting will add value to your learning experience, and you will have a unique opportunity to follow your patient's journey in a way you might not experience in a metro hospital setting.

Albany is a beautiful port city situated some 400km south of Perth, perched on the Southern Ocean and facing Antarctica. With a strong historical heritage, there is plenty to explore in your time away from work, and many outdoor activities to embrace – including sailing, fishing, surfing, cycling, swimming and bush-walking. A vibrant restaurant/café and arts scene complements the attractive lifestyle on offer.

Albany Health Campus is the regional referral centre for the Great Southern region, servicing the needs of a population of approximately 55,000 people. The state-of-the-art, integrated hospital facility opened in May 2013, and offers a wide scope of services including Emergency Medicine/High Dependency Unit, General Medicine (including Palliative Care), General Surgery, Orthopaedics, Obstetrics & Gynaecology, Paediatrics and Mental Health, amongst others. The campus is also the location for the regional cancer centre, and there is an on-site renal dialysis unit in place.

Positions at Albany Health Campus

Albany Health Campus Medical Education and Support

The Medical Education program at Albany Health Campus is developed and led by the regional Director of Clinical Training (DCT) and coordinated by the Medical Education Officer (MEO). The DCT and MEO will support you during your rural placement with supervision provided by your clinical supervisor.

You can expect comprehensive education and training including; clinical supervision, regular education sessions, orientation and assessment support, simulation training, and a range of professional development programs. As a junior doctor training in Albany, your participation and attendance at scheduled educational sessions will be keenly encouraged and bedside teaching, Grand Rounds and interprofessional simulation-based training all form part of the educational program.

Supporting Your Move to Albany

The regional Medical Education Officer (MEO) is there to support transition from city to country. Make early contact to confirm start dates and times and receive orientation information. The Albany Medical Administration department will assist you with your accommodation and transport to the Great Southern. Please email gs.medicaladmin@health.wa.gov.au

Rural Applications with WA Country Health Service (WACHS)

Intern Positions

Interns have the option of selecting WACHS (through the Centralised Recruitment Process) as their Primary Employing Health Service and spending their entire intern year in Albany.

Interns also have the opportunity to rotate to Albany Health Campus from Fiona Stanley Hospital. Two General Medicine positions per term are available in 2019.

Resident Medical Officer Positions (RMO)

WACHS is a direct employer of RMOs through the Centralised Recruitment Process. Contracts of 6 – 12 months are available depending on position and department.

Where to Apply

Applications for Intern and Resident Medical Officer rural placements are made via the Centralised Recruitment Process (<http://www.pmcwa.health.wa.gov.au/home>) and are based on merit. In your application, clearly state your interest in a rural placement and select your preferred region or site. Applicants are advised to keep abreast of application dates by checking the PMCWA website.
