About the Youth Advisory Group

The Youth Advisory Group provides advice to WA Country Health Service on issues that affect children, young people and their experiences of health services. Your voice matters and will help shape decisions, services and improvements across country health.

We're looking for young people aged 15-17 years from across country WA to join. Applicants may have experience with our services as a patient, client, carer or family member, or simply have an interest in health and wellbeing and improving health services for young people.

We encourage people to apply who can actively represent their own views and the views of their peers

What to expect

- The Youth Advisory Group will meet approximately twice per school term (up to eight meetings per year). Meeting dates and times will be developed in consultation with members.
- Meetings will be held online via Microsoft Teams.
- Members will receive a sitting fee of $37.50 per hour in recognition of their time, knowledge and contributions.
- Participants will be provided with training and support to effectively participate in a consumer advisory group.
